

A Simple Remedy

Cardui is a purely vegetable extract, a simple, non-intoxicating remedy, recommended to girls and women, of all ages, for womanly pains, irregularity, falling feelings, nervousness, weakness, and any other form of sickness, peculiar to females.

TAKE CARDUI

It Will Help You

Mrs. A. C. Beaver, of Unicoi, Route No. 1, Marbleton, Tenn., writes: "I suffered with bearing-down pains, feet swelled, pain in right side, headache, pains in shoulders, nervous palpitation, and other troubles I cannot mention, but I took Wine of Cardui and have found it the best medicine I ever used, for female troubles." Try Cardui.

CORDIAL INVITATION

Is extended to all who wish to open personal, professional, business, trustee or corporation accounts.

The same care is given to the smallest account as to the largest.
 Drafts issued DIRECT on all parts of the world.
 Investments and collections made.
 An attractive rate of interest paid in our SAVINGS DEPARTMENT.

Depositors in the Savings Department of the Alexandria National Bank are requested to bring their books in and have their interest due April 1, 1908, credited therein.
 Others who have not opened accounts with our Savings Department are invited to open accounts and note how rapidly their funds will increase by regular deposit and interest earned.

FINANCIAL.

An investment you wish to make, rest assured the safest investment you can possibly make is to deposit your money in the Savings Department of this corporation where it will earn 3 per cent, interest compounded twice a year. Your principal will then be always at your command and cannot depreciate in value. You can start an account with this corporation for $1.00 or upwards. If you have other investments in view isn't it advisable to have your MONEY MAKING MONEY while you are deciding this matter. There's many a $1 or $5 bill spent unnecessarily because it is carried in the pocket, when a savings account would have discouraged the expenditure. A bank account is not only a convenience, but a great encourager of economy, so why not commence right and open an account with us today. We invite you to do so and promise courteous and liberal treatment consistent with sound banking methods.

An Opium Farm.
 Not far from Macao, at the mouth of the Canton river, China, is an opium "farm." Standing in a courtyard is the great wooden building devoted to opium manufacture, and in its vestibules are heaps of brown balls, not unlike coconuts. Two ladies, seated, cut them open and remove the black, jamlike substance they contain—the compressed poppy. The outer covering is a thick layer of dried leaves. Inside the building the whole place is full of smoke, arising from a hundred charcoal fires in open earthenware "chattis," placed in a row around the walls. Over each fire rests a shallow brass pan in which bubbles a mixture of poppy and water. This mixture is strained through paper and passes on to be more carefully boiled in the next room, where the process is exactly similar. From there it goes to another room, where the slurr is reduced to the consistency of treacle over slow fires. In another building the opium is packed in tiny cans and placed in cases and sealed with the government seal.

A Banker's Generosity.
 One day Humboldt was dining with Mendelssohn, the banker, and an unusual thing for him, was very silent. His host, remarking it, observed to Humboldt that he was sure he must be ill.
 "No," said Humboldt, "but I am in great trouble. Only ten minutes before leaving my apartment to come here I received from my landlord a note informing me that he had sold the house in which I reside and that I must move. The very thought drives me to despair. I really cannot bear to move again."

Mendelssohn gradually led Humboldt into conversation, during which he found time to write a note and receive an answer to it. He then took Humboldt aside and said: "By this note I learn that I am now the owner of the house in which you reside. The condition, however, upon which I have become its possessor is that you continue to occupy your apartment in it as long as you live."

Wanted a Bargain.
 One day a small Chinaman boy came to a bait before a sign over a desk in the office of the express company. It gave the rate for money orders, and after studying it for a few minutes he walked up to the cashier and said boldly:

"I want a money order."
 "How large a one, my boy?" the clerk inquired benignly.
 "Well, let's see," pondered the little fellow. "The rate for a ten dollar order is 8 cents, isn't it?"
 "Yes, that's right."
 "Well, I want a drum and pair of roller skates and a new straw hat and some candy. Ten dollars will be enough."

Then he fished through his pockets and triumphantly placed a nickel and three coppers before the astonished clerk. It took ten minutes to convince the youngster that nothing less than $10.08 could buy a money order for $10.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Didn't Give Him a Chance.
 "Say, ma," piped up little Johnny after the minister had finished his call and taken his departure, "when Mr. Meeker was here every time you stopped talking a minute he would start in to say something 'an' git as fur every time as 'I dare say,' 'an' then you would start goin' 'an' talk a lot more, 'an' that is the way it kept on right along, 'an' the only thing he said all the time he was here was 'I dare say,' 'I dare say,' every few minutes."
 "Well, what of it? I am not to blame for Mr. Meeker's paucity of ideas, am I?" demanded Johnny's mother, somewhat impatiently.
 "I dunno 'bout that," said Johnny doubtfully, as if not exactly sure what was meant by paucity of ideas, "but anyhow, ma, you orter give him a chance. When he started in with 'I dare say,' why didn't you keep quiet just once, ma, 'an' let him go ahead 'an' say what he was goin' to 'an' leave it over with?"—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A Chapel on a Bridge.
 At St. Ives, the little old Huntingdonshire town in which Oliver Cromwell lived for several years, there is a bridge spanning the lazily flowing Ouse, and on this bridge is a quaint building which at one time did duty as a chapel. The structure has been in existence for something like 500 years and was, according to local historians, originally employed as a beacon light-house. After that it was turned for a time into a hostel and eventually became an ordinary dwelling house. Some of the rooms in this curious building are below the level of the water in the river.

His Sorrow.
 "You know that box of cigars you gave me on my birthday, dear?" said a man to his wife.
 "Yes."
 "Well, I took them down to the office, and some one stole them."
 "I'm awfully sorry."
 "So am I—for the thief!" was the cruel remark.

An Outsider.
 Sutor—Your daughter, sir—well, er—that is—she told me to come to you—she says you—Pater—Quite so—I understand. Let's see, are you Mr. Bronson or Mr. Whiffles? Sutor—Why, I'm Mr. Hotchkiss!—Cleveland Leader.

Her Odd Way.
 Giles—My wife is a queer woman. Miles—Indeed! Giles—Yes. Why, when she has occasion to drive a tack she uses a hammer instead of a hairbrush.—Chicago News.

Sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things.—Tennyson.

GIRL GRASPS NAKED.
 Bitten by a big copperhead snake yesterday Miss Ellie Novor is in a critical condition. She was strolling along a mountain, near Shamokin, Pennsylvania, when a prostrate tree lay before her path. She crawled over its trunk, on the top of which the snake was basking. The young woman did not notice the reptile until she threw out a hand to grasp hold of the tree to draw herself up. As quick as her flesh touched the snake the latter sunk its fangs into the girl and glided away. Miss Novor ran the whole way home, which was several miles.

Before she arrived the hand had swollen to twice its natural size, while she was distracted with great pain until a physician administered a dose in a fight to counteract the effects of the snake poison.
